Memo to: Kymberly Harvey

Concerning: The past school year

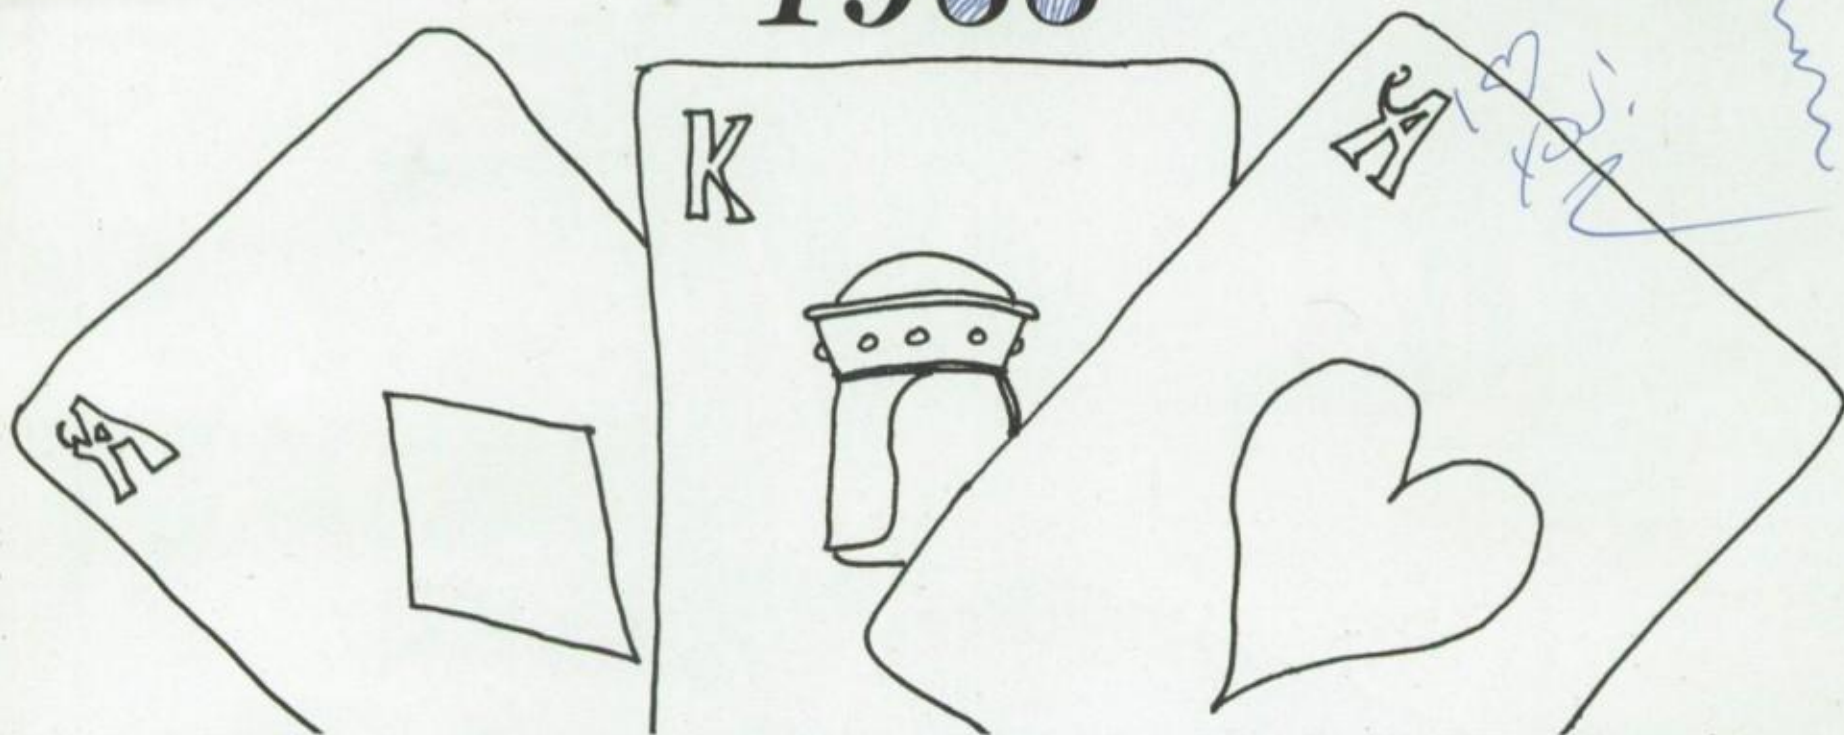

From: Adam P. Rumsey, Outstanding Sophomore

It has been brought to my attention that the past [school] year has been exceptionally fun and interesting with never a dull moment. I understand that you have been a big part of the fun and chaos of the year. Because of your participation in GHO, GYC, and other extracurricular activities you have given life to otherwise dead underclassmen. Because of your outstanding effort and activity, I hereby promote you to the position of high school graduate and future radiologist. Good luck in this new endeavor.

The spirits are high at the homecoming pep rally as the students give it their best spirited cheers.

With looks of great expectations, Kelly Lemke, Kim Lea, and Jimmy Coble sit in the middle of the crowded commons awaiting the arrival of the homecoming queen and king.

Cookie Earnhardt, Heather Hice, and Nikki Ritchie assume the Three Musketeers pose, proving best friends do stick together.

It's picture day for the underclassmen! Here, they anxiously await the moment to show their "pearly whites."

A FULL HOUSE

were dealt. The stakes were high;*

Freshmen had been added to the deck, but the Seniors were still wild.

Everything was riding on this hand;

graduation for the Seniors and a promotion for the underclassmen.

After the last hand had been dealt,

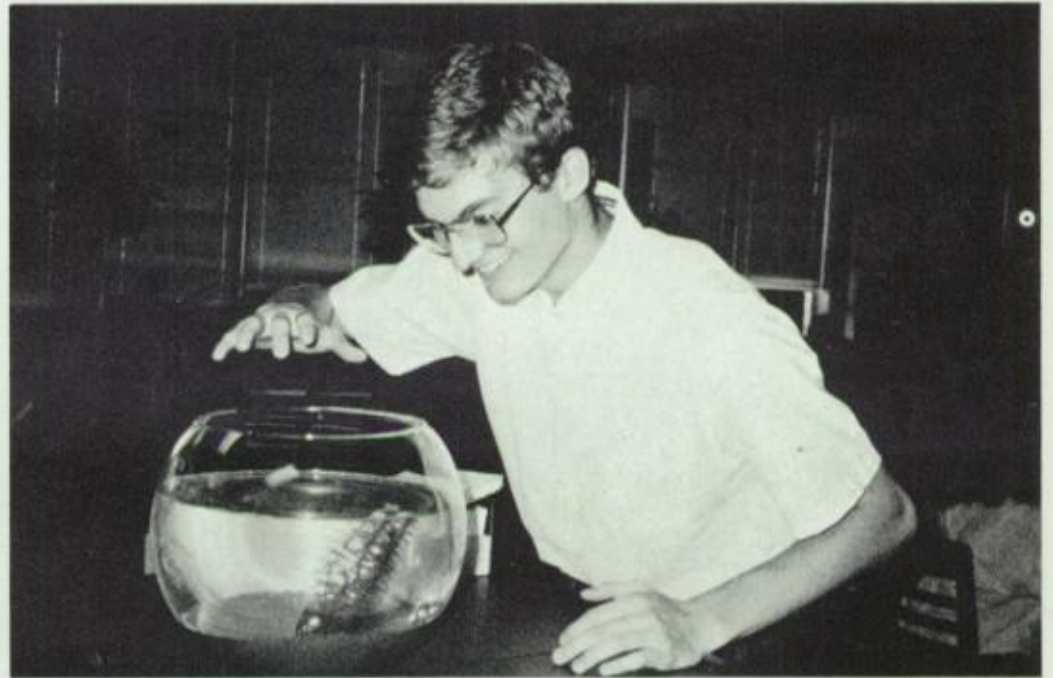

the players all discovered that

A Full House Beats Three of a Kind.

JOKER'S WILD

Tim Hundley, Trip Gayden, John Houser, and John Hausler gave the air-band audience a true rendition of Van Halen's "Main Street." / After a long day's work with the books, Carolyn Ruth and Ashley Bailey smile at the thought of sixth period. / An enthusiastic crowd of seniors show their Falcon spirit at a pep rally in the packed stadium.

Getting to classes on time seemed impossible for students at Southeast's full house. As the bell rang, students rushed into the Annex for second period. / At the homecoming dance, graduate Jim Holt and senior Angie Byrley take a few moments to rest before the next slow dance.

One would think that a school of 1300 people could make no time or room for extra activities and events. This year, however, was different. Not only did we take advantage of our "full house" situation, but we made the best out of it. With so many students, participation was excellent. It all started with clubs, some having as many as 150 members. Attendance at the homecoming dance was remarkable. The airband was a great success thanks to all the students. It was evident that Southeast Falcons love a crowd. With the addition of so many students, new friendships were made, new goals were achieved. Friends could get together at a party or perhaps McDonalds, maybe even school, just to have a good time and enjoy one another's company. That is what school is about, learning and growing with one another. The full house at Southeast definitely made this possible.

PROM 1987 . . .

Romance was floating in the air and Senior Amanda Cook and date David Juliano obviously got a whiff of it on the dance floor.

The Brice Street Band kept the music going into the night for all the avid dancers.

Prom '87 was special for many people in different ways; the atmosphere at Bryan Park and the Brice Street Band being right on the beat helped to make April 24, 1987, a night to remember.

The Prom was a very exciting night for many Juniors and Seniors of Southeast. "The anticipation of the night began the morning of April 24," recalls Senior Parris Burns. "By the end of the evening, I was exhausted. I had made memories that would last much more than a few hours . . . but a lifetime."

Jaye Salerno enjoyed the evening thoroughly and believed it "to be one of the most glamorous nights" of her life, although the "price ranges came as a big Shock!" Jimmy Coble found the Prom amazing because it "transforms teens into elegant young adults! It is the place where fantasies are born."

Chris Kivett, Denise Johnson, Craig Ferree, Julie Graham, Wendy McGee, and Darren Payne crowd together to discuss plans for the remainder of the evening.

Rod Davis not only did a great job of hosting but also had time to entertain Seniors Janice Fields and Amanda Cook.

Through The Years

Doing the honors, Kellie Woodbury proudly stands as she announces the King and Queen to reign over Prom '87.

Edward Fields and Kellie Shoffner portray the '87 King and Queen as they dance nose to nose.

Taking a break from the crowded dance floor, senior Karen Dickson and date Dell Sapp head for the punch bowl.

GRADUATION

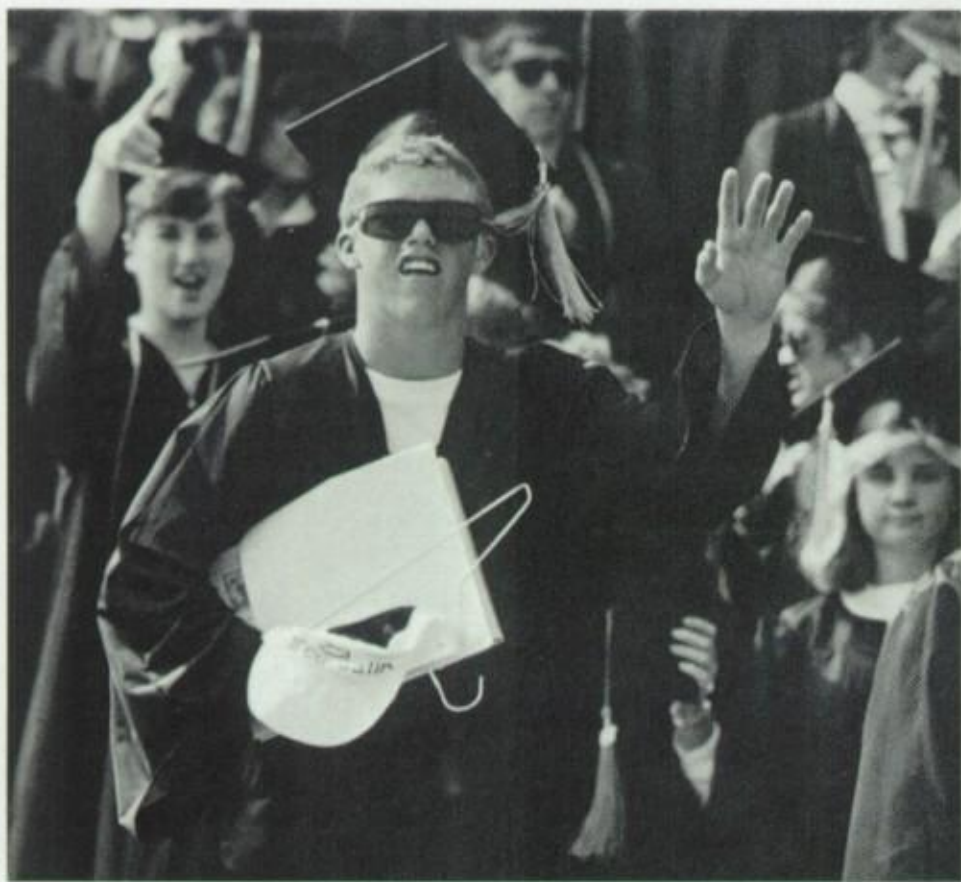

Class of 1987

It was a day for celebration and a day for tears. Three hundred graduates gathered at the Greensboro Coliseum to receive their diplomas on May 30, 1987. The speakers for the commencement exercises on the theme, "Our World is What We Make of It," were Barry Hurewitz, Valedictorian; Margaret Bass, salutatorian; J.B. Reynolds, cultural arts; and Allen Griffin, vocational arts. Skyler McCurley, representing student council; Patricia Jordan, senior class president; and Principal David Dodd Girardi spoke of the trials and tribulations of high school and the years to come. The vocal ensemble, led by Shelley

McCain entertained the audience with "Farewell Song" and the Southeast Band, directed by Brad Sparks, played the final recessional for the class of 1987. After the ceremony, the new graduates, with their diplomas in hand, began to give their fellow classmates a final goodbye. After graduation, practically everyone headed for the long awaited beach trip to have one last celebration together. Of the three hundred graduates, two hundred and seven planned to further their education at either a private or public institute of higher learning.

With twelve long hard years behind him, Kevin Alley waves a final goodbye to Southeast.

Junior Marshals Jeffrey Causey and Angela Byrley lead the way for the 1987 seniors.

It was a triumphant day not only for the seniors of 1987, but also for the faculty when graduation finally arrived.

As many students begin school in late August, their minds are already set for summer. Who knows what makes summer so glorious. Perhaps it is just the thought of no school for three solid months. Summer means vacation to make a short word longer. It is a time for family vacations to the beach, mountains, or wherever father desires to go. For some it is a chance to go abroad and live life as a foreigner. Others, however, must complete the dreaded summer school courses in order to prepare for the up-coming school year.

Groups of dedicated, hardworking students end their vacations early in order to return to school for various activities and sports, such as band camp, football, volleyball, and student council to name a few. It never seems to last long enough for most people, but regardless, summer is something to live for. Have you ever wondered what it would be like if school was only three months long and summer was nine months long?!

50's

Homecoming '87 went back in time back to the Fifties. We started our Homecoming activities with Spirit Week. Everyone showed his spirit by participating in Nerd Day, Jersey Day, Orange and Black Day, Prep Day, and finally College Day.

To top off the week before the big game, we ended the afternoon with a pep rally, where the Senior Representatives and the Homecoming Court were recognized.

During halftime of the game, the Homecoming Court entered through a 50's Juke Box. Deborah Hadley and Zack McMillan were crowned Homecoming Queen and King. Paula Hilliard was also crowned the Maid of Honor.

BEAUTY PAGEANT

The Beauty Pageant is quite an event for Southeast Senior High School. This year's pageant, "Taking It Uptown", was quite a phenomenon according to Southeast history. The contestants, dressed in black unitards with white gloves, shoes, canes and top hats, wowed the audience with their superb dancing skills. The togetherness was incredible. Each contestant had to be nominated by a club and then audition on the sole basis of talent. Out of all of the people who auditioned, only fifteen were lucky enough to be picked for the pageant. They were:

CONTESTANT	CLUB SPONSOR	ESCORT
1)Angie Byrley	TADD	Scott Smith
2)Kristin Rice	DECA	Derek Allen
3)Lorri Yaskiewicz	International	Greg Ayers
4)Amanda Fields	Jr. Civitans	Robert Hanes

12)Lynn Fields	SECME	Mike Whisenant
13)Kellie Woodbury	DECA	Allen Cheek
14)Stephanie Curtis	Student Council	Scott McCurley
15)Nicole Hall	Masqueteers	Travis Verts

The pageant's success did not happen like magic overnight. It took endless hours of hard work and effort. Many afternoons were spent rehearsing the dances and polishing up their talent. The time spent on the show, however, did make it work like magic. Before the pageant, all of the contestants were treated to a supper by the freshmen girls of the Student Council. Following tradition, President Bantee Hall was the emcee for the pageant. The beauty pageant started with the talent competition. Following this, Theresa Robinson entertained the audience before intermission with a dance. Next was the evening gown competition. Preceding the semi-finalist selection, the Ensemble entertained the audience. Finally came the awaited moment — the crowning of Miss Southeast 1988. The winners included Charissa Hinson, Miss Southeast; first runner-up, Nicole Hall; second runner-up, Stephanie Curtis. Heather Brannock was named Miss Congeniality. With the hard work of the contestants and the leadership of the Student Council, the beauty pageant was one of the best yet at Southeast Guilford.

All smiles, the contestants finally conquered the dance and indeed, "Took it uptown".

The New Edition

The most talked about subject at Southeast this past year had to be the entrance of the freshmen class. Most everyone knows how the rest of the high school and the teachers felt, but what is really important is how the freshmen saw the situation. The following two quotations are the respective opinions of two freshmen, Sherry Chalflinch and Heather Hanford:

"The first time I heard the schools were going to merge ninth graders with the senior high, I thought it was a good idea. Our grades really become important now and we are high school students so we deserve to be in the same school as the sophomores, juniors and seniors.

"One of the good changes is that we get a little more freedom to do some of the things we like. Another thing I like is having mixed classes. You get to meet more people and learn from upper-classmen. I know of only one bad change and that is that it is so crowded, and none of the upper-classmen really wanted us here, but now I think everyone has accepted it and it is not as bad as I originally thought."

Heather adds: "One difference between the middle school and the high school is that the middle school is much less crowded. The high school has two hour exams while the middle school does not have any. Also, the high school has more extra-curricular activities and people are more individualistic and much more mature. All in all, I like the high school better."

School of Excellence

Many things have changed about Southeast during this year of transition, one change being students who commute between Southeast and the School of Excellence at Eastern Guilford. Angel Neese and Jason Cashman are prime examples of students with two schools.

The School of Excellence takes attendance at 8:00 am. For anyone who does not drive, this means arriving at Southeast by 7:15 because the bus leaves at 7:20. This is quite a change for some students. Jason says, "I usually only get five to six hours of sleep per night. This is due to homework and having to get up so early."

Angel Neese states that there are few differences in the classes and teachers at Eastern: "Most of the teachers are more than willing to help. They give you the information and it is your responsibility to understand. If you have questions you have to ask. The teachers don't baby you along at the School of Excellence. The students have to take the initiative."

Jason Cashman, on the other hand, feels that "Southeast is a pre-school compared to the School of Excellence at Eastern." Jason says, "the teachers give more homework than can be comprehended by any human brain, and because of this amount of homework, there is no social life."

Traveling time between the two schools is third or fourth period. Many of the students go out and eat lunch. Angel says, "Traveling gives me a break from the day. The change in atmospheres makes learning easier and puts most students in the mood to learn." Considering the many hours of homework involved, "Is it really worth it? This is the question we ask ourselves everyday," states Jason Cashman. —Angie Byrley—

POLITICS-

President Ronald Reagan salutes for the press.

Lots has happened on the political scene this year. Early in the fall, the Iran-Contra affair led to the hearings where Lieutenant Colonel Oliver North became known as an American figure, if not a hero. Ollie-mania followed with people going so far as getting their hair cut in the same style or at least making jokes about buying document shredders. In international circles, Mikhail Gorbachev met with President Ronald Reagan at a summit meeting. The American public enjoyed the show of truce and a much needed arms agreement was made. Even as a "lame duck" President, Reagan made progress and took political stands. Gary Hart's political life appeared dead when the press wrote of his boat cruise with Donna Rice. He backed out of the running, but later changed his mind and reentered the race along with Vice-President George Bush. This year also marked the celebration of the two-hundredth anniversary of the Constitution.

This year marked the anniversary of a sad event. Americans held tributes all around the United States for the crew of the Columbia Challenger. On a better note, the space program has recovered and hopes to launch a new space shuttle, the Discover, in the summer of 1988. In the science/technology field there has also been an influx of research on the AIDS epidemic. The AIDS virus has caused many professional workers to take special precautions such as plastic gloves to protect themselves. Researchers have concentrated on all aspects of the disease and the progress made will help to provide a cure in the future.

A chronological view of the U.S. Space Program

SPORTS-

Dan Jansen was distressed over his fall.

In sports this year, the Minnesota Twins triumphed over the St. Louis Cardinals (now the Phoenix Cardinals) in the World Series, and even though football suffered with the NFL strike, the replacement players, commonly called scabs, enjoyed their three weeks in the highlight. In the end, the Denver Broncos, in their second year in a row of being in the Superbowl, lost to the Washington Redskins. Lastly, in sports news, the fifteenth winter Olympics were held in Calgary, Alberta, Canada. America's first gold medal went to Brian Boitano in men's figure skating. He won with a narrow margin over Brian Orser, a native Canadian. Eric Flaim, of America, took the silver medal in speed skating and dedicated his race to Dan Jansen, another American speed skater who fell in competition. Bonnie Blair also won the gold for the U.S. in 500-meter speed skating. Another American favorite was ice skater Debi Thomas. Both the USSR and East Germany fared well in the games. Events included the luge, speed skating, ice hockey, bobsled, downhill skiing and curling and freestyle as demonstration sports.

MOVIES

PERSONALITIES-

As far as personalities go, they have either been beginning or ending something. Bruce Willis, of Moonlighting, awed the public with his marriage to Demi Moore. Tom Selleck, though ending his series Magnum P.I. this past season, began anew with a secretive wedding of his own. Joan Collins divorced her hubby Peter Holms in a widely publicized court case while her sister wrote about the rest of the Hollywood Husbands. The Church Lady of Saturday Night Live made the expression "Well isn't that special" popular, and Robin Williams continued his successful career as a comedian in all kinds of public functions. Debuting on the music scene were Debbie Gibson with "Shake Your Love" and Tiffany with "Could Have Been". Whitney Houston continued her strong career while Michael Jackson attempted a comeback with his album "Bad". The American public said farewell to some personalities including Rita Hayworth, Fred Astaire, Lorne Greene, Baroness Maria Von Trapp and Jackie Gleason.

Throw Momma From the Train

Three Men and a Cradle

Popular movies this year included Academy Award nominees Children of a Lesser God, Platoon, Hannah and Her Sisters and A Room With a View. Other favorites with Southeast students were Dirty Dancing, Moonstruck, Crocodile Dundee, Fatal Attraction, Three Men and a Cradle, Good Morning Vietnam, Pee-Wee's Big Adventure and Throw Momma From the Train. This year proved to be a big year for movies. Janus Theatres and Four Season's Mall Theatres gained much patronage from Southeast students, not to mention the Video Shack in Forest Oak's Shopping Center.

STYLE

Mini-everything dominated 1988

The saying is that "anything goes" and this year everything went. As long as it was outrageous, it was worn. Stripes, plaids and even poka-dots covered the scene. Mini was in. Skirts, suits and dresses alike were above the knee or else they were down to the ankles. Girls wore lots of low-heeled shoes and large earrings. Hair styles ranged from short to long, some people with half of one and half the other. Colors for males and females alike ranged also. Bold colors and pastel peaches and mint greens were popular. Many males had their left ear pierced. Hair styles ranged for guys also. Some wore long hair, some short, but most wore it short around the face with it slightly longer in the back. Bermuda shorts were in fashion for both males and females.

When asked what students would change about Southeast High School, students gave a variety of answers, ranging from "everything" to "nothing". The most common request regarded the lunch situation. There was an overwhelming outcry for an open lunch and/or a longer lunch.

The next most common reply pertained to the fact that Southeast is very crowded. Students felt the school building should be expanded to provide for the entrance of the freshmen class.

Close behind was the need for an air conditioning system in the main building. Apparently, even in the midst of a cold winter, students remembered how hot August and September were. Those who had many classes in the annex, on the other hand, did not complain.

On the positive side, students felt that better relations among groups and individuals is necessary. Students submitted that school spirit and a brighter environment should be a larger part of Southeast's hallways.

Many students commented on the school parking lot. Some felt the parking lot should be expanded while others simply stated that the parking lot should be paved. Among those who claimed that parking stickers should not be necessary, many had to walk from the baseball field to school every morning and afternoon of this year.

About the same amount of students called for more activities, assemblies and more freedom. To go along with more freedom, twelfth graders wanted more senior privileges.

A smoking ramp and school breaks were also included in the ideas students had. Not far behind was a request for a better sports system.

Another popular request was to start earlier so the school day would be shorter. A few individuals asked for a Jr. ROTC program, school pool facility, lower grade system, more pep rallies, exams before Christmas, and a shelter all the way from the main building to the annex.

The staff, on the whole, was very impressed with the ideas students had to make Southeast Senior High a better place. Students evidently had thought about the situation and came up with some unique solutions to rectify problems.

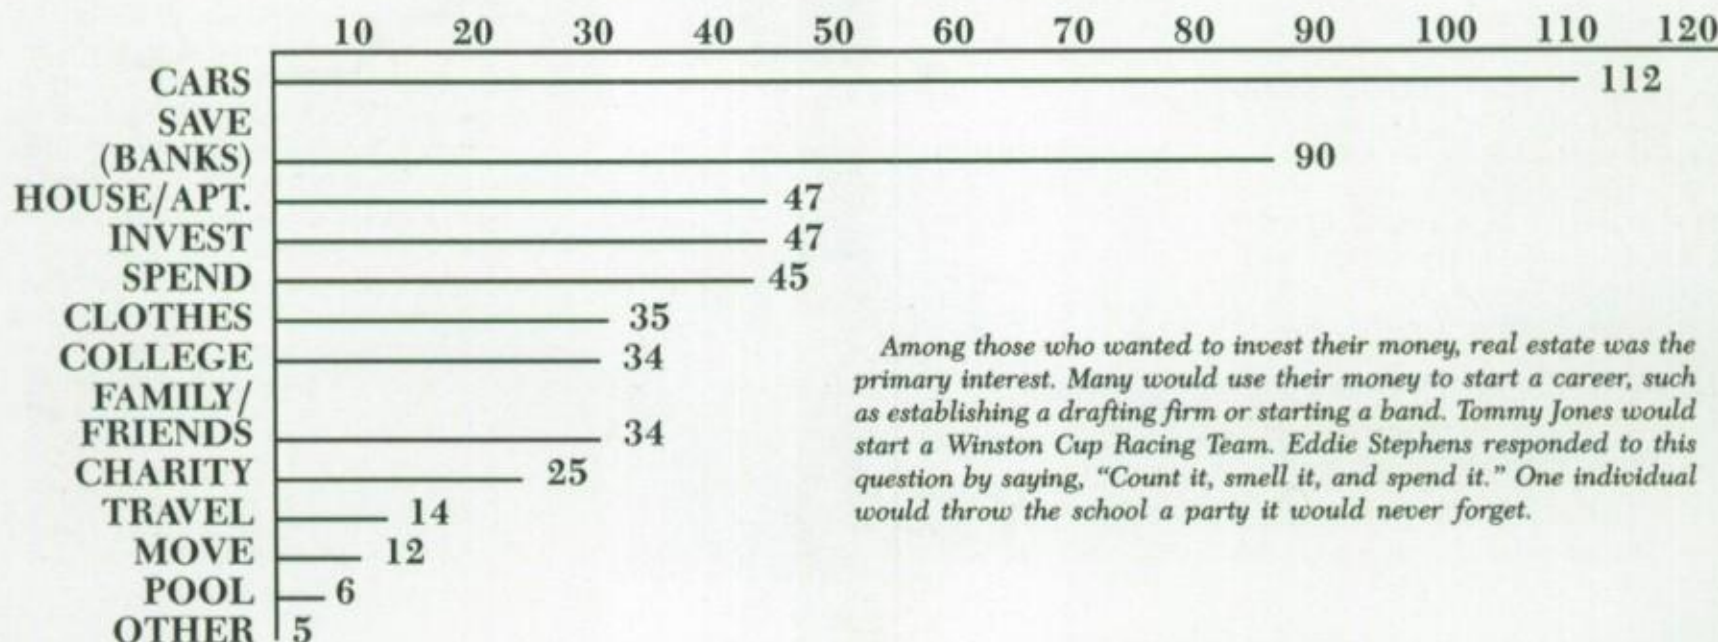

The crowded cafeteria was the subject of much discussion.

Pep rallies were popular at Southeast and several students requested that we have more.

CHANGES AT SOUTHEAST

THE MILLION DOLLAR QUESTION

Among those who wanted to invest their money, real estate was the primary interest. Many would use their money to start a career, such as establishing a drafting firm or starting a band. Tommy Jones would start a Winston Cup Racing Team. Eddie Stephens responded to this question by saying, "Count it, smell it, and spend it." One individual would throw the school a party it would never forget.

Fanfare's student employee Cheryl Henry busily straightens shoes.

STUDENT JOBS

Many students at Southeast had after-school and weekend jobs. These jobs took much of their time and these students were often faced with juggling their schedules to complete projects on time. Students had different reasons for working. Some worked simply for spending money, others for gas money or automobile insurance. Some saved their earnings for college tuition purposes. This page is dedicated to all those Southeast students who worked during the school year. Of course, not all of them could be pictured, but several employers were gracious enough to allow the annual staff to photograph their student employees on the job.

Gelato D'Oro employs several Southeast students, one being Eileen Archer.

Sibling Rivalry — Since the ninth graders have been moved to the senior high, many changes have occurred. One of these is that many Seniors find a younger brother or sister passing them in the halls. The following are reactions from the Senior-Freshman duos at Southeast.

"I always have a ride to and from school with a Senior for a sister. She always knows when I'm in trouble, and she may not tell Mom, but she sure does hint around." — Bert Alverson, 9

"I don't see Bert that often so I guess that's an advantage. I don't have to pick him up at the junior high so that's a definite advantage." — Julie Alverson, 12

"I think having a sister in the 12th grade is really cool. We do more things together so we're closer than ever before." — Dennis Llano, 9

"Not only do I have a brother in the 9th grade, I have a best friend." — Lorena Llano, 12

"I think our relationship was better when we weren't together so often. Now, we share friends, and therefore, I must watch what I say." — Elizabeth Findley, 12

"Living with a senior has given me a lot of opportunities to meet new people. Of all things, Elizabeth has become the best friend I have." — Linda Findley, 9

"Since we go to the same school, we know each others friends. Because of this, we are much closer than we used to be." — David Coltrane, 9

"We don't seem to fight as much as we used to. I have learned more about him, and now I think this is the sweetest kid I know!" — Sylvia Coltrane, 12

"It's nerve-racking to have my little sister here. I've become accustomed to the phrase, 'Eddie, is that your little sister?'" — Eddie Stephens, 12

"He seems to thrive on embarrassing me, but I can always tattletale on him to mom. If I need money, he'll lend it to me with interest. If I need help, though, I know my big brother is close by." — Holly Stephens, 9

"I haven't had any problems at all with her. We get along better at school than anywhere." — Scott Langdon, 12

"Scott had told me that he wasn't going to speak to me while we were at school. That changed the first day he forgot his lunch money." — Erin Langdon, 9

"Brandon helps me understand some of the problems his peers/friends are facing. He sometimes, however, tries to use his influence on the behalf of his friends. It doesn't work. Next year may prove very difficult when I actually have him in one of my classes." — JoAnn Loggins
 "With my mom here, I always feel like I'm being watched. It doesn't bother me as long as I'm doing what I'm supposed to be doing. I can't count the times I've been offered a bribe for answers to one of Mom's tests. Sorry, she hides them from me, too." — Brandon Loggins

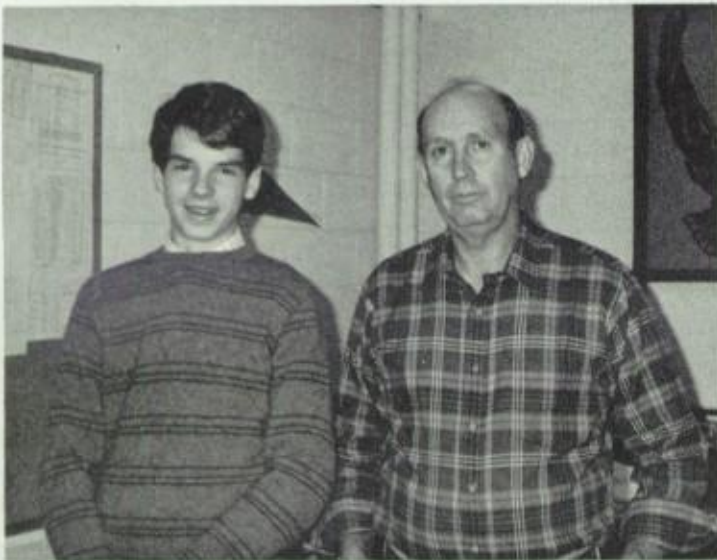

The Parent Trap: Students/Children: Don't you think it would be horrible to have your mother or father as a teacher who has to give you a grade?
 Teacher/Parents: Would it be difficult to have your son or daughter in your class and have to grade them objectively?
 There are many cases of parents teaching their own children here at Southeast. Below are reactions of these combos.

"My father and I have become very close since he has been a coach as well as a father. He always pushes me to be the very best that I can." — Kent Clontz
 "I've been able to build an adult type relationship with Kent that most parents don't have the opportunity to build. An advantage of being nearby during the day is that I'm able to stay on top of his academic progress." — Jim Clontz

"In my opinion, having my dad at the same school has many more advantages than disadvantages. He's always there if I ever need him for anything." — Brian Beasley

"I don't teach Brian, and I rarely see him after we get to school. Teaching here is an advantage if he's having a problem in class. I am more available to discuss his problems with his teachers or counselors." — Bill Beasley

"Being at the same school with Patty means having the same schedule. This means appointments are more easily made and emergencies can be taken care of quickly." — Dodie Miller

"Mom can find out just about anything when it comes to my friends, and teachers can tell her how I'm doing in class. An advantage is that I have access to school equipment and a way to and from school." — Patty Miller

"An advantage of being in the same school is that I can interpret to her both the teacher and the parent view about policies and regulations. I can also help her maintain a positive attitude about school." — John McCaskill
 "I find that my dad expects more from me than most parents expect from their children. This is probably because he is a teacher and is more closely associated with my other teachers." — Kristi McCaskill

Have you ever wondered what makes a school run so smoothly? Who sponsors all the extracurricular activities? What makes school fun? Clubs play a major part in the school scene. These clubs, made up of the students and advisors, all work together to make school a fun and effective place of learning. School doesn't begin at 8:30 and isn't over for everyone at 3:15. Many students remain at school to work on various activities. The famed boosterettes can be seen early in the morning hustling spirit paraphernalia for sporting events. alcohol. The carpentry club works diligently in the shop while FFA members beautify the outside of the school. The study abroad program is aided by the International Club. Masqueteers arrive early and stay late delivering masked messages and preparing for the school plays. The student council is constantly busy with dances, pageants, and deliveries. Jaycettes and Civitans are occupied with school improvements. The band and choruses are always prepared to entertain while the NHS finds their own ways of entertainment for education. Finally, the newspaper staff is always on the scene to inform the school of late breaking news, and the yearbook staff captures the memories of 1988 on paper.

STUDENT COUNCIL

A typical Student Council usually is the center of most activities in a school. It sponsors dances, Homecoming pageants, flower sales, and other service projects around the school and community. It is made up of a number of hard-working, dedicated students and advisors who spend many long hours and exert a lot of energy to make the projects successful.

Southeast Guilford High School is an example of a strong and productive student organization. It is composed of five officers and 55 representatives who spend many hours after school planning and carrying out the various projects it sponsors. These 60 young men and women are guided by two faculty advisors, Mrs. Carolyn Townsend and Mrs. Wanda Beneke. There is also a very supportive administrative team here at Southeast.

The long hours and hard work have proved to be very successful this year. Student Council representative elections were held after school started this fall. The officers and the advisors supervised the selection of thirteen representatives from each of the four classes.

Homecoming 1988 was celebrated "At the Hop." At halftime of the Homecoming game, the Southeast King, Queen, and Maid of Honor were announced. Student Council sponsored the afternoon pep rally activities and the sock hop after the game.

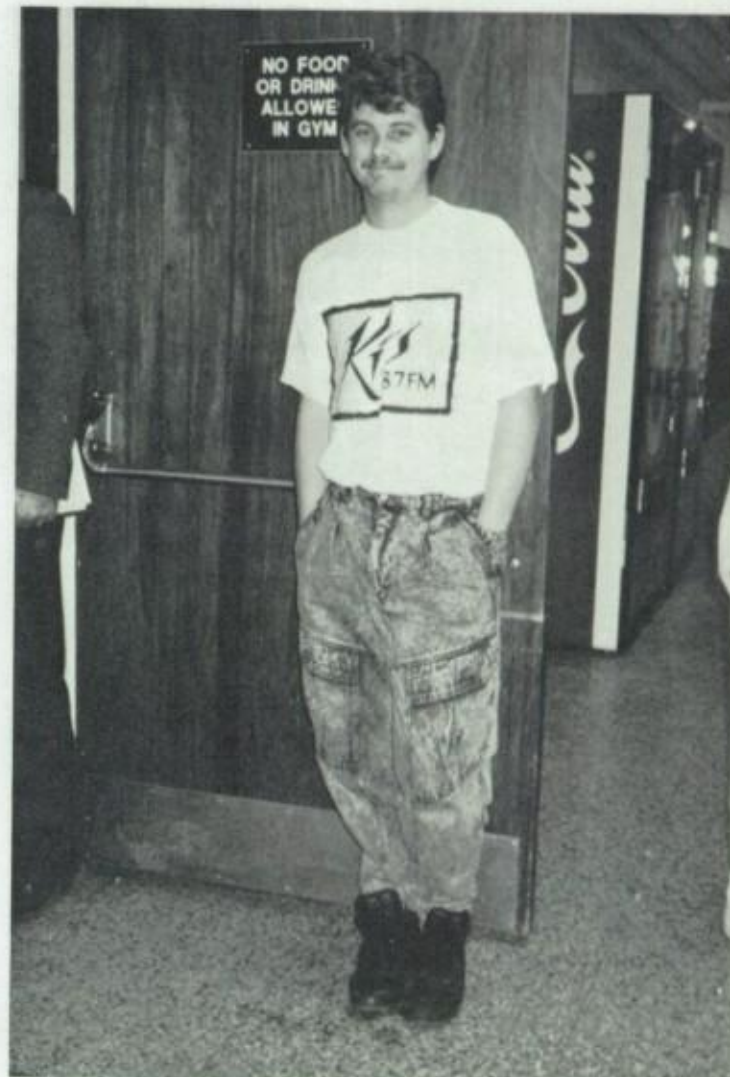

To reach out into the community, Student Council collected canned goods for the "Feast of Love" and money for the Empty Stocking Fund. Student Council members also put in many hours helping the GYC clean, sort, and get toys ready for Christmas and for needy children. As a result of the hard work and effort, Southeast was given a plaque for having worked the most hours.

As service projects for the students at Southeast, Student Council sponsors candy cane sales and Christmas card mailbox. To honor the faculty who have supported the various projects throughout the year, Student Council supplied coffee, hot chocolate, and donuts for the Effective Teaching workshop.

The Southeast Beauty Pageant was a big spring project for Student Council. Long hours of preparation made the pageant most successful.

As has been indicated before, Student Council members have put in much work and exerted a lot of energy. Not only have the members spent summer days at workshops and conventions, but also the Student Council members have given their best effort in order to make this school year be most successful for all students.

Thanks to Scott Robbins, the KISS F.M. disc jockey, the Homecoming Dance was a great success.

JAZZ BAND

Jazz Band is another select musical organization at Southeast. You name it, they can play it. Under the careful direction of director Brad Sparks, the band rehearses daily on great classics and blues with such style that their annual concerts draw large crowds of listeners. The nineteen member group travels to various places to perform at luncheons, businesses, and wherever asked. The trip to Florida this year was quite successful. The Jazz Band was quite successful in representing Southeast well with their spirit and pride.

ENSEMBLE

Ensemble has been quite an experience. Being in this choral group for the past two years has taught me a great deal about music. We've traveled to Disney World in 1987 and this year we sailed to the Bahamas to show off our talent in places other than Greensboro. Ensemble isn't just traveling. The group practices after school and on Sundays to prepare for the many performances we have to give. Everyone in Ensemble becomes close friends and no one will forget the great times we have together. — Angie Byrley —

FFA

The Future Farmers of America is one of Southeast's most active clubs. It strives to develop leadership, citizenship, and character among its members. One area in which they excel in both meeting and competition is parliamentary procedure, and their livestock, tractor driving and crop judging teams are especially successful.

The FFA. was involved in many activities this year, one of which is the traditional barbeque sale. Several members make this an all-night event, cooking and preparing the park for sale. The money made from this was used to help finance the club's field trips and conventions.

The club is active in service projects as well, the most notable being the canned food for the Christmas needy family project which is always successful. In addition, the FFA. helps beautify the school grounds by landscaping and gardening projects.

DECA/TADD

Distributive Education Clubs of America is designed to develop future leaders for marketing and distribution. One of its objectives is to promote an understanding of the responsibilities of citizenship in our free, competitive enterprise system. DECA members learn to serve as leaders and have opportunities for state and National recognition through competition. In addition to school requirements, DECA students work in a variety of marketing jobs from grocery stores to camera shops. They hold fund raisers to finance a spring banquet to honor those employers who have participated in the work-study program.

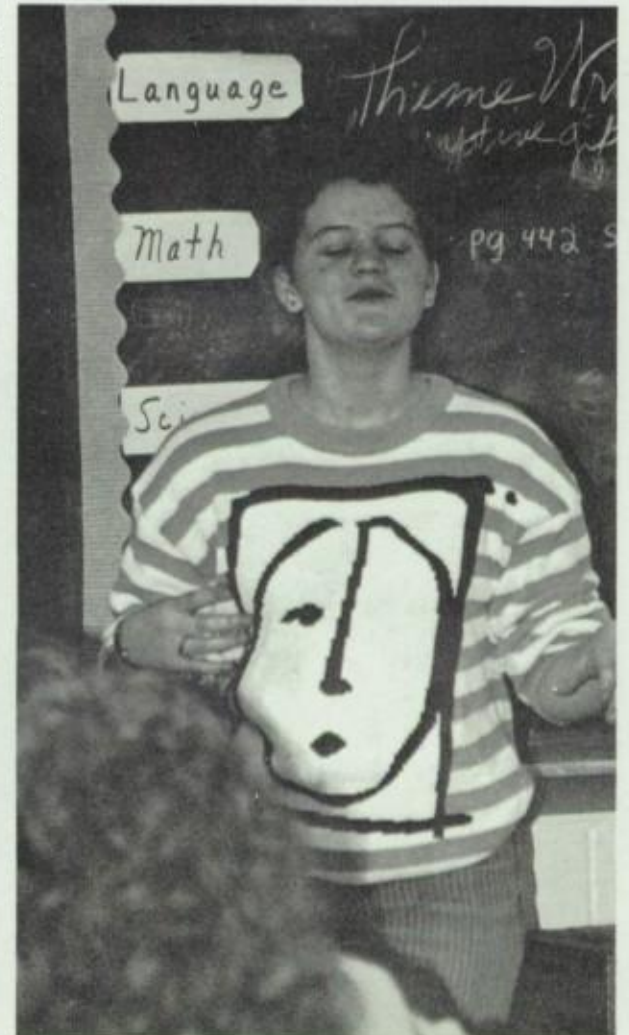

The TADD Club is one of the most unique clubs in the school. It is composed of 35 members, all of whom must be extremely dedicated in order for the club to be a success. The members pair up in teams of two and sometimes three and take turns teaching at schools. The Teams teach primary and elementary age school children the dangers and effects of experimenting with drugs and alcohol. The kids usually react positively to the club and inquire about the effects and fatalness of drinking and drugs.

HIGH I.Q./NHS

The High IQ Team is an organization which competes in areas of math, science, English, history, and current events. The members practice regularly on Thursdays in order to prepare for the February 6th match entitled "Super Saturday." On this day, forty teams answer numerous questions to narrow the number of participants down to the top eight teams. These teams go on to televised competition for the coveted High IQ Bowl.

The National Honor Society is a highly recognized organization on the basis of scholarship, service, leadership, and character. Students are inducted in the spring and must maintain a 3.4 grade point average while in the club. Each year the NHS does one or more projects which will benefit the school or community in some way. This year the club made tapes of the questions and answers in the Driver's Education Manual for students who have difficulty in reading. Each member contributed by reading questions for one side of a tape. The NHS will continue to have this standard of excellence as it continues at Southeast.

Clockwise: During one of Bruce Willis' many trips to Pleasant Garden, he decides to visit the NHS club and is warmly greeted by members Kelly Underwood and Pam Gladney. Angie Byrley and Stephanie Smith pose for this picture after realizing they have come to the NHS meeting a day early. To do well you must practice, and the HIGH IQ Team is no exception as Randy Hopper studies and prepares for a match.

Tiercel/FBLA

The Tiercel Club is a service club whose major project is helping with the Red Cross Bloodmobile. The club members are responsible for assigning times for donors, helping with refreshments and making sure that donors rest at least thirty minutes after giving blood. A very successful Tiercel project, several times Southeast has won the competition among the county schools for the highest number of pints donated.

FBLA is the national organization for all high school students participating in business and office programs. The purpose of this club is to provide, as an integral part of the instruction program, additional opportunities for secondary students in business and office education to develop vocational and career competencies and to promote civic and personal responsibility.

INTERNATIONAL/SECME

Being the newest club in the school, it may surprise you to know that the International Club is the largest with 215 members. With a co-director from each language, a vice-president, a secretary, the foreign language teachers, and the help of a parent booster club, the main objective this year has been to raise funds to send one student from Southeast to study abroad this summer.

The Southeast organization of SECME, (Southeastern Consortium for Minorities in engineering), is a group of students who are very interested in the field of engineering. The club encourages its members to take college prep maths and sciences to prepare them for their future vocation.

CIVITANS/JAYCETTES

"I am civitan: as old as life as young as the rainbow, as endless as time . . . My hope is for a better world and better city, through better men and civitans." The Junior Civitans here at Southeast work hand in hand to make it a better place to go to school, starting by painting the parking lot and never stopping!

"Let us generously give our friendship to each other . . . and our enthusiastic support to the purposes and ideals of the Greensboro Jaycees." Who is that person in the hotdog stand at the GGO? Look twice because it's probably a friendly face from the Southeast Junior Jaycettes. The Junior Jaycettes work with the Greensboro Jaycees to support the GGO and many other Greensboro activities. These ladies do hard volunteer work for the Greensboro area and should be commended.

MASQUETEERS /SCIENCE

The Masqueteers consist of students who are interested in acting or stage production. They consist of mainly Drama students, but others also participate. In November of 1987, they presented a "Three in One" play consisting of "Masque of the Red Death," "The Bald Soprano," and "Save Me a Place at Forest Lawn." They received an award for their presentation of "Masque of the Red Death" at regional competition. In the spring they presented Grease as the school play of 1988. Their service project for the year was their participation in the Empty Stocking Christmas Fund.

The Science Club is one of the newest clubs at Southeast. It was started by a new teacher to Southeast, Dr. Dee Dee Clark. Being their first year, their main purpose is to assert themselves as a prominent club at the school.

Their plans for the year included trips, fund raisers, and guest speakers. They hope these projects will continue to benefit their members. President Kenneth Angel states, "The Science Club is an experience that students at Southeast should take advantage of. I hope future science clubs enjoy their times as well as we have." The Science Club proved to be a positive factor in the future of Southeast.

Clockwise During the Masqueteers production of "Masque of the Red Death", Tracey Coble, Jairus Owens, Kevin Varner, and Kristen Landreth dramatically act out their roles. At the conclusion of the play presented by the Masqueteers, the cast takes a relaxing break. On the Science Club's excursion to Discovery Place, a few of the members discuss some of the highlights of their trip.

DRAFTING/ CARPENTRY

The Carpentry Club is composed of those members of the carpentry classes who are interested in doing extra activities utilizing and reinforcing those skills developed in class. Mr. Faulkner is the advisor for the club. This year the members competed in a woodworking design contest. Their major project was the construction of a building with an octagonal roof. Many of these students remain involved in carpentry, either in their vocational or avocational future.

The Drafting Club is composed of members of Drafting I, II, and III classes. Mr. Comito is the club advisor. The club members enjoy their work and have excelled in designing layouts. Each year the club participates in a state-wide drafting competition, where Southeast has a good showing. Club member Dan Dymek states, "The Drafting Club challenges me to be the best draftsman I can. I cannot imagine drafting at Southeast without the Drafting Club's support."

Clockwise: The Carpentry Club members work long and hard on the roof of a home they are building. From a distance, the octagonal house is shown that the Carpentry members are currently constructing. Mr. Comito assists a Drafting Club member as he designs a layout.

ACES HIGH

With a look of disgust, Melissa Softly stops the creative juices from flowing as she examines an animalistic creature in Art III. / Bogged down with books, Donya Wade waddles to her car after a long hard day of work. / Suzanne Swanson and Stephanie Phillips spend a few moments in the library preparing for one of the many major tests in the life of a high school student.

Chemistry teacher, Dr. Clark explains the next days lab to a group of students. / Appearing to be studying, Jarius Owen fools all with his look of knowledge in Mrs. Butler's geometry class.

Academics are an important part of every school, naturally. The math, science, English, history, and vocational classes are considered a must for every student. Like it or not, every student must participate in these classes before graduation. Academics are provided to better each student and to prepare them for life after high school. With the efforts of teachers and faculty, the academic programs are always successful. Each academic activity prepares one for life in college. Every test, every exam makes one a better student and better able to cope with the hardships one must face. Academics may not be the most fun part of high school, but they are the most necessary. One would not be able to function in the world today without the knowledge acquired in English, Math, and history classes of High School.

Those who do not learn from the past are condemned to repeat it. At Southeast students follow this cliché and learn about the past through various courses. In ninth grade students are required to take ELPSA. They study economics and government. This year, freshmen were also involved in a stock market game through Fayetteville State University. Juniors study United States History and Seniors, European History. Each student's knowledge of the past is broadened in order that he may learn from other's experiences.

Feverishly, Jamie Sealey checks the rises and the falls of the stock market.

ELPSA students Jan Baker, Stephanie Creed, Chris Reynolds, and Michelle Stinson play "The Stock Market Game."

Mr. Causey gives a detailed lecture as his European History class listens attentively.

Juniors David Day, Janet McCabe, Esther Walters, and Jennifer Steed study grammar by diagramming sentences at the board.

Pondering over an English test, Scott Smith contemplates his answer to the question.

Acting out sections of The Canterbury Tales, Jeff Dyson and Todd Bennett try their medical skill out on Vance Horner.

ENGLISH

The 1987-88 school year has been a busy one for the English department at Southeast. Students have reinforced their knowledge of grammar by diagramming sentences. They have performed skits of Shakespearean plays and the Canterbury Tales. Students have also spent much time interpreting novels, plays, short stories, and poems. Because four credits of English are necessary to graduate from Southeast, students must take an English course each year. From student's freshmen year to senior year, the English department has been busy developing the mind and character of each student.

MATH

Whether it is General Math, Algebra, Business Math, Geometry, Advanced Math, or Calculus, the math department has something to offer everyone. Our math teachers here at Southeast are qualified enough to teach such equations as $2 + 2 = 4$ as well as "integrals" which are taught in Calculus. Math is considered a very important subject and many skills we absorb in our math classes will be utilized for many years to come.

Clockwise from above: Nibbling on his pen, Allen Cheek, tries to put together a logical answer to the problems Mr. Casterlow had assigned for the day. Jay Elliot ponders upon Algebra while Mr. Lanzer directs the class on how to solve equations. Making up an Algebra II test, Kristi Edmonds tries to concentrate in a secluded atmosphere.

SCIENCE

Roland Alston takes a break from chemistry to sit back and think about his upcoming weekend. Trying to keep up with Mrs. Dawson's speedy note giving, Bantee Hall and Pat Causey stop for a quick breather.

Southeast offers a variety of science courses, all of which are beneficial to the students. The science subjects required for graduation are biology and one type of physical science. Other science courses include chemistry, advanced biology, and physics. Chemistry students have often been titled "Careless" students. Many times there were unsettling explosions and deadly odors caused by the disobedience of students. Chemistry odors were hardly a match to the uninvited fragrances of frogs, worms, cats, fish, pigs, crayfish, and sharks emitted by the biology department. Science courses offer a better understanding of science and its effect on us and on our environment.

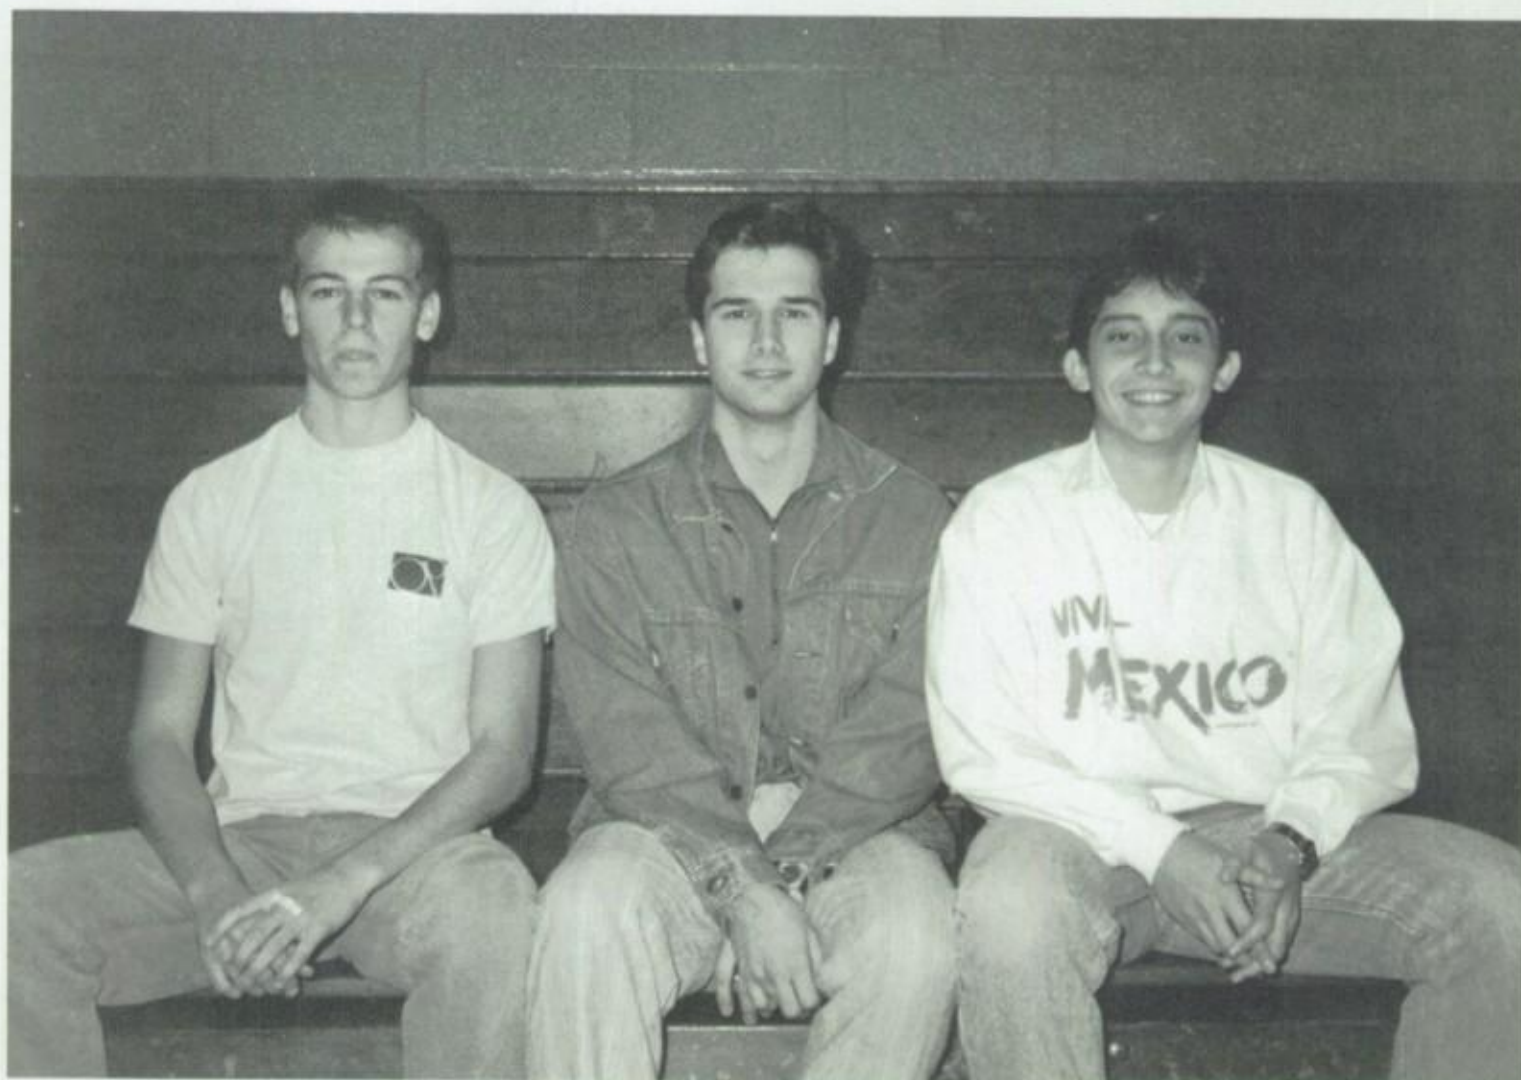

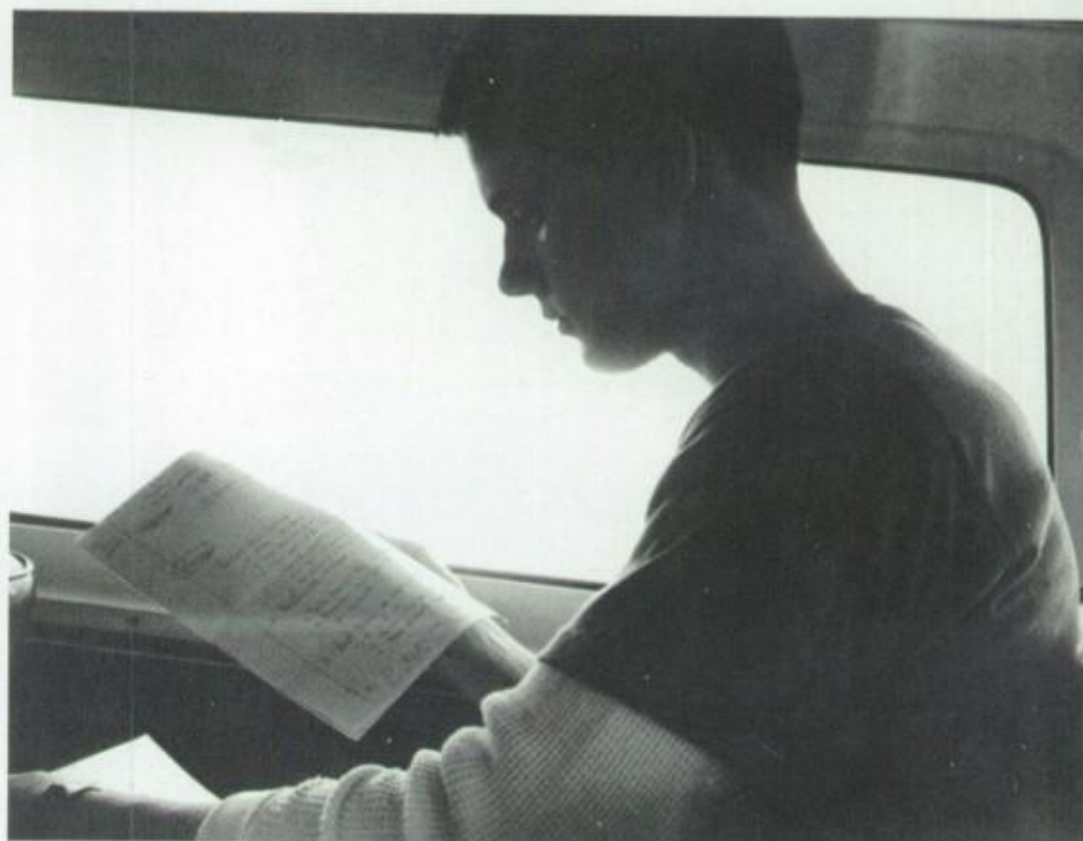

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Counter-clockwise from above:
In third period, Spanish III class,
Mrs. Harshbarger reads from a spanish newspaper.

Looking over his lesson plan, John Brady prepares for an adventurous day of teaching Spanish to an anxious group of fifth graders at Nathaniel Greene.

Exchange students, Iban Murube, Andrea Zangirulame, and Guillermo Sandoval show their smiles to all.

When you walk into a foreign language class, you are not just walking into another classroom, but an entirely different culture. Here at Southeast, you can hear students talking in Spanish, Latin, and French with one swift walk down the front hall. Foreign languages are becoming more and more important at Southeast and with this popularity come exchange students. You may have by chance come across a few students this year who are eating, drinking, and sleeping a foreign language.

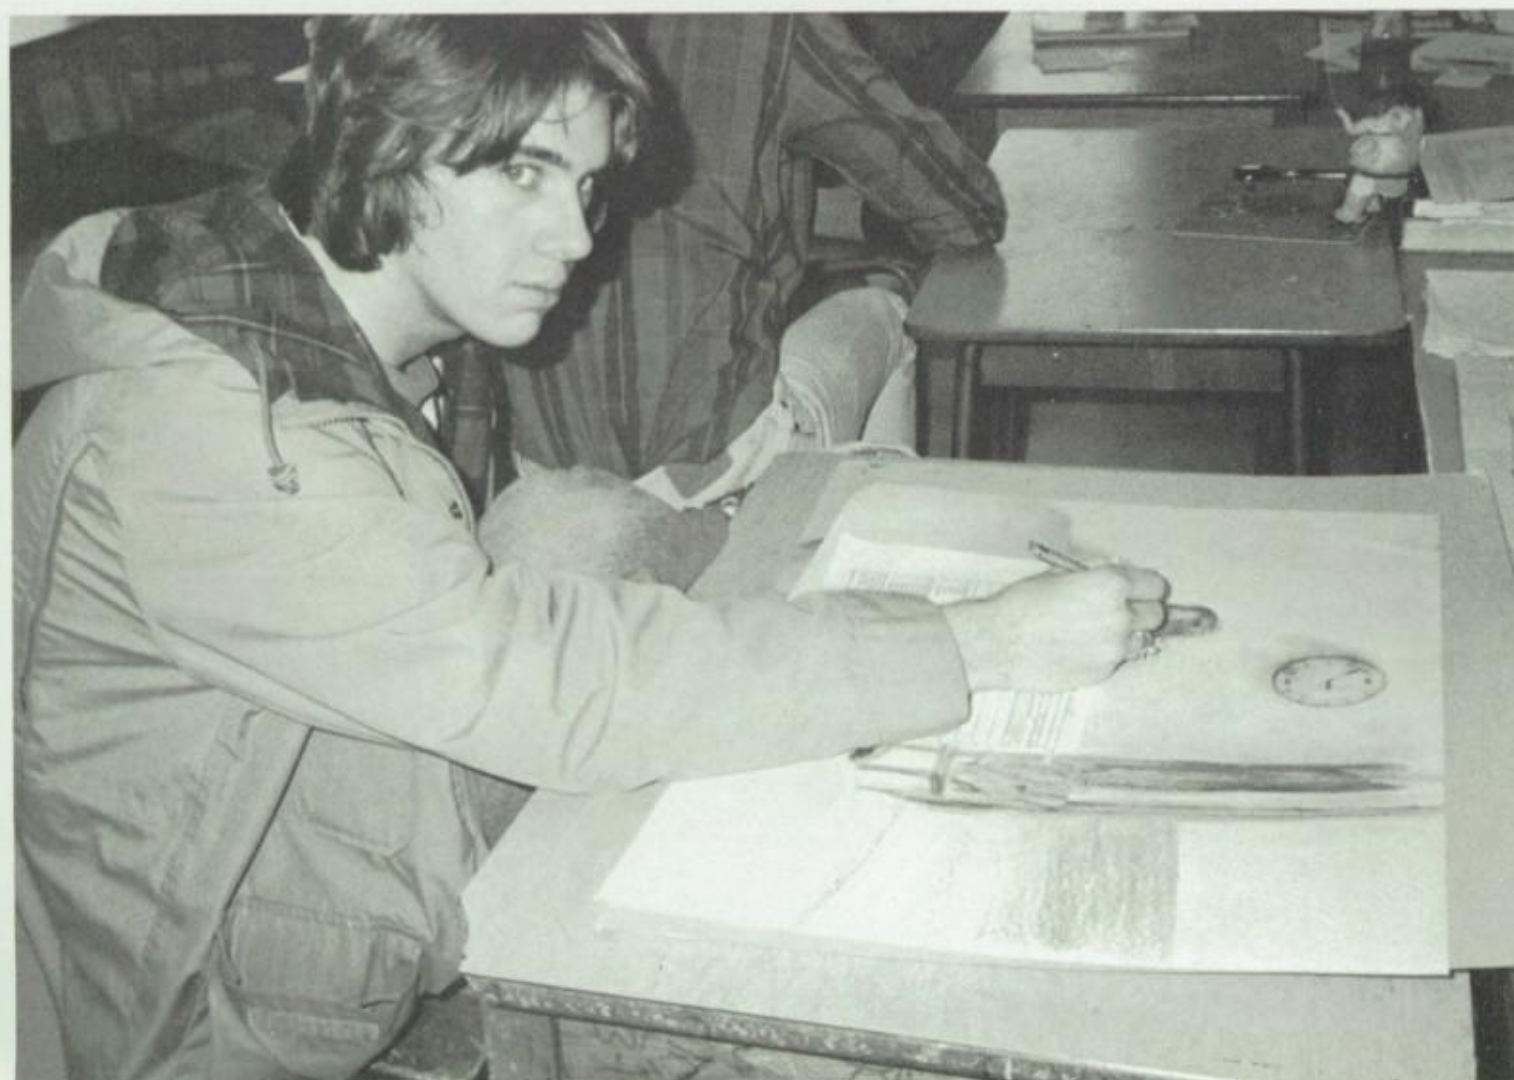

DRAMA AND ART

Counter-clockwise from above: Mrs. Williams not only assigns interesting drama games to play but joins in the fun as well. The first period Drama II-III class gets into the Halloween spirit by showing us all just how strange they can act in portraying their characters.

In Art II, first period, William Marlow sits back to ponder his masterpiece for a few seconds.

Travis Young works diligently to complete another of his extraordinary drawings we have all grown to admire.

The Southeast Art and Drama departments begin with Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Williams and those involved in these departments know it. Though both classrooms differ, they both contain a certain air of independent activity. No one makes a move without an O.K. or nod from one of the two. Both Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Williams are highly respected by their students but that is not to say that they do not push their limits! In these classrooms, Art and Drama students learn to express their thoughts and ideas through means other than everyday talk.

VOCATIONS

The vocational courses at Southeast include carpentry, drafting, agriculture, electronics, occupational co-op, distributive education, and auto body mechanics. All of these classes provide skills and knowledge to help students decide what type of work they want to go into. These classes consist of more than just rows of desks surrounded by four walls; they provide the students with hands-on experience. Many times, when students graduate from high school, they run into the problem of lack of experience; vocational students often have an advantage over most students because they have experienced the job market and have had a chance to practice what they want to do after graduation.

In Mrs. Garrett's kitchen, student Anthony Harris prepares another culinary delight.

Benny Steelman, Tony Royal, Darrel Shinault show their skills in carpentry class.

Mr. Comito instructs Bill Burd, Bobby Josephs, and Todd Marshal on how to do things the right way in drafting.

Keith Reece looks on as Dennis Ray exhibits the good time that he and Tony Roland are having in auto body.

BUSINESS

Clockwise from top: In typing, Amy Andrews stops to count how many words per minute she has typed.

Andrea Helms works those fingers to the bone as she rushes to complete her assignment. In the library, Lee Wright practices up on his computer skills.

An assignment in accounting can be more fun than you think and here, Jenny Robertson shows her smile as she works.

The back hall of the main building is usually filled by the "click, click, click" of Southeast typists. Typing, Accounting, Shorthand, Data Processing, and Business Math are all a part of the Business Department. A popular course for most students is typing. The saying "a-s-d-f-j-k-l-;" has become a famous quote for nearly all the typing students. Most students interested in an accounting career try to prepare by registering for an accounting class. This class offers an excellent opportunity to receive valuable knowledge. The data processing course offers great experience in working with micro and on-line terminals. This class could prove to be valuable to those who are considering a field in computers. It can also be fun for others since computers are becoming more a part of our everyday life.

SPECIAL EDUCATION

Mr. Callahan, Ms. Mabes, Ms. Chinn, Ms. Peterson are those teachers here at Southeast who teach students with special needs. You will not find a classroom atmosphere more homey than in their rooms. Not only the students they have in their classes, but all the students have developed a very warm relationship with these teachers and are highly respectful of them. A friendly voice of experience, Mrs. Chinn says, "Hopefully we learn to respect each other's abilities."

Clockwise from right: Eric Burgess begins to prepare for finals before the Christmas holidays. Concentrating fully, Amy Amick listens with a careful ear to Ms. Mabes as she explains American History. It is all smiles in the classroom of Mrs. Chinn as the students prepare for exams. Deep in thought, Dereck Backmon listens attentively while taking notes. The ever changing lunchroom is converted into a classroom for Ms. Mabes as she lectures to her students.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

A vigorous workout with the leaded jump ropes proves to be helpful to guys gym class. With great dexterity Jeff Farris jumps the bench during the regular workout in gym class. Getting his head on straight, Mike Hodgkin works out in the weight room. Practicing her overhand serve, Tiffany Clark slams the ball across the net.

All students, whether they want to or not, must have at least two years of Physical Education. Most students, once the semester begins, realize that physical education is not as grueling as it seems. Actually, you can have fun playing soccer, tennis, basketball and other sports with your friends. There is nothing like battling it out on the court. So, get over the smelly locker rooms and the rustled hair and enjoy your physical education way to health.

A STACKED DECK

Clockwise From Left: Needing a little extra rest, Chris Levinson takes a nap during English class. / Dealing with a crowded cafeteria, Scott Suddreth realizes one must eat first and socialize on the way back to class. / If one did not know better, Andrea Ramsay and David Smith could be mistaken for hardworking, eager-to-learn students rather than seniors.

Clockwise From Top: Lorena Llano finds that her locker is not as small as she thought it was. / Goofing around in class, Keith Reece and Randy Baldwin show their school spirit with their Falcon wig.

A full house was exactly what we had at Southeast Senior High School this year. With the addition of the Freshman class of 317, the school was filled to capacity. Not only were the classrooms full, so were the halls and especially the cafeteria. Many times the overcrowded halls made students late for class. Lunch was often a hurried affair. Through it all, however, everyone continued to show their Falcon pride. More people meant more support for extra curricular Falcon activities. Whether these activities were pep rallies, football games, or choral music programs everyone showed their spirit.

In anticipation of the full house, many things around the school had changed when the students arrived on August 26. Not only had the attendance office moved, but there seemed to be more teachers and fewer classrooms. The cafeteria had changed also. There were now booths and tables, and the teacher's cafeteria served as a classroom and an extra eating area during lunch time. Students could also eat snacks in the commons.

Many things however, remained the same. The Freshmen could not open their lockers and could not find their classes. Sophomores and Juniors just wished they were Seniors. On the other hand, the Seniors carried on the traditions of past classes. They gave directions to the Freshmen and Sophomores which sent the new ones on a wild goose chase around the school.

All this and more proves that a full house beats three of a kind.

Mark Durham is not only an outstanding student but an outstanding athlete and leader as well. In addition to playing both baseball and basketball, he has remained at the top of his class and is Valedictorian of the Class of 1988. He has been a student of Southeast, Governor's School, and the Center for Excellence as well. Mark has also participated in such organizations as the Rotary Leadership Camp, TADD, and the National Honor Society.

Mark is a Morehead scholarship nominee and a Boys' State Representative. Although shy and soft-spoken, he is a perceptive, witty, and an all-around nice guy. Mark Durham is a scholar, an athlete, and a gentleman.

For example, she is musically inclined as is shown in her participation with the Southeast Vocal Ensemble. She is also a Junior Marshal, vice-president of the National Honor Society, and has remained at the top of her class throughout high school.

Aside from school, Angie is very interested in the welfare of others. This is displayed in her involvement with her church and community. Angie Byrley is a positive influence in and out of the classroom and is always willing to do what is required and more.

Jeff is a Junior Marshal, a member of the International Club, National Honor Society, and is a Semi-finalist for the National Merit Scholarship. In his junior year, he was chosen as a delegate to Governor's School and Close-Up: A Focus on State Government.

Jeff strives for the heights in other areas also — he has a passion for flying and soloed for the first time at age sixteen.

Mrs. Allman states that Jeff is well-liked and respected by adults as well as his peers. It is obvious that Jeff Causey is an Outstanding Academic Senior in the Class of 1988.

Although classified as an Academic Outstanding Senior, Kelly Underwood has many other outstanding characteristics. According to Mrs. Harshbarger, Kelly's Spanish III teacher, she is a positive influence in the classroom; in doing well, Kelly encourages others to try their hardest also. Kelly is involved with many extracurricular activities. She is a member of the International Club, National Honor Society, and has received the Principal's Excellence Award. Kelly is also a Junior Marshal.

Kelly plays the violin and has been a member of the Greensboro Symphony Youth Orchestra for the past four years. She is active in both church and community activities and would like to pursue a career in teaching. Kelly Underwood is an outstanding member of the Class of 1988.

Michael Artis is an outstanding athlete. He is considered by the coaches to be one of the most consistent players. He has participated in baseball, basketball, and football and is an all-around athlete. In Coach Norwood's words, "He is definitely one of our leaders." Norwood also says that "the thing that impresses our coaching staff is that Mike becomes a better all-around player each week." Michael is not only an excellent athlete but a good sport as well. He represents our school's athletic department well because he always gives 100% and has a positive attitude. No matter what sport he's playing, Michael gives his all and always does an "outstanding job."

OUTSTANDING Amanda L. Cook

Outstanding . . . the word pales in comparison to her accomplishments. Amanda Cook has served Southeast well in almost every aspect of school life: Student Council, participation in clubs, and athletics. She is that rare combination of academic and athlete that any coach would aspire to have on her team. She has proven herself in the classroom as well as on the field by competing in tennis and softball. Her efforts were recognized in softball through selection to the North Central 4-A All-Conference Softball Team in 1987.

Amanda is the picture of consistency. She is dedicated to whatever she pursues, cooperative with those she works with, and exhibits an attitude so positive that it is contagious.

On the lighter side, Amanda possesses a quick wit, a good sense of humor, and for those who know her well and have heard it, a laugh that would fill the Grand Canyon.

Amanda Cook is truly a Senior to remember.

Did someone mention comedy? Then surely you mentioned Jimmy "Wally" Coble! Currently at work on a stand up comedy routine, a video, and various skits and plays, Jimmy always finds the humor in life. He seldom wears the "tragic" drama mask. Active in the Masqueeters as well as classroom dramatic work, Jimmy is certainly an integral part of drama at Southeast. He is enthusiastic and often appears in costume at pep rallies and choral assemblies. A drama student for three years, "Wally" has appeared in Annie Get Your Gun, Improv Tonight!, "I laugh, I Dance, I Hurt, I Cry," "The Masque of the Red Death," and "The Bald Soprano."

Not only is she an outstanding piano player, Ronda sings extremely well. She is in the Southeast Vocal Ensemble and has been a participant in a workshop at Mars Hill College and was chosen for the 1987 Honors Chorus. Mrs. Gallagher states that Ronda has the ability to learn and perform extremely difficult arrangements with ease. Ronda works as an accompanist in the UNC-G music department and would like to pursue music as a career.

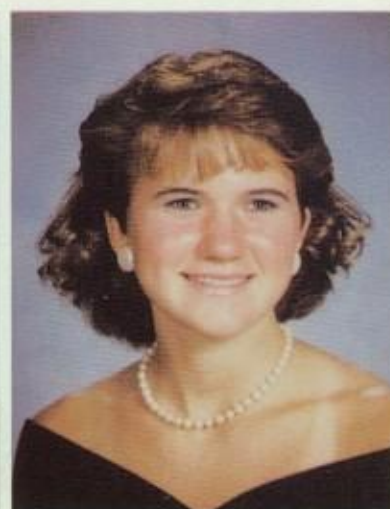

Music is not the only activity on which Ronda spends her time. She is also president of TADD. Ronda is enthusiastic, and this energy makes her well-liked by her peers. Ronda Dance has proven herself to be an outstanding senior in the Class of 1988.

The addition of the Freshman Class to the Senior High brought out not only more students, but also more athletes. As a result of this, Junior Varsity sports flourished like never before. "There was a much larger participation and involvement in Southeast athletics this year," says Coach Norwood. There was likewise an excitement in the Varsity sports over the past year. Even though we were not always winners according to the scoreboard, the Falcons were always winners at heart. They showed this through their dedication and sportsmanship on and off the field. As junior Brandon Byers puts it, "We might not have always won, but the fun and fellowship we shared will remain forever in my heart." These are memories that will remain with the Falcons a lifetime. Our competition in a 4-A Division was tough, but we held our own and always kept our heads high with Falcon Pride.

Although we might not have triumphed in every sport, the highlights included winning seasons in Baseball, Track, and Tennis. Through good times and bad, our sports teams had faith. They might not have won it all, but they showed their Falcon spirit throughout.

The "87-88" season brought forth much enthusiasm and heart-ache. The Falcons suffered one of the worst seasons in recent years going 0-10. All the players were optimistic in the beginning but in the end, Senior Jim Knight states, "I'm glad I was able to play, but the season wasn't as rewarding as I'd hoped." Due to many problems and turmoils, the Falcons didn't come through as anticipated. Despite this, the players will always remember their days of playing football for the Southeast Falcons.

The Varsity Football Cheerleaders shared a common dedication and friendship. We set our goals high for the season. We settled for nothing less than being the best. We were rewarded by being chosen as the number one varsity squad in Guilford County.

It was such an honor to be elected captain of such a talented squad. It was a lot of hard work and I know I could not have done it without the help of co-captain, Laura Ross.

Even though our season did not go as we would have liked, we will never regret the hard work and dedication we gave to the players because that is the whole reason we were out there. Everything we had done became worthwhile when a player came up and said, "Thanks! We could not have done it without you."

The Junior Varsity cheerleaders cheer the team on at a basketball game.

"Cheerleaders?" a crowd member says. "What is a cheerleader?" Pep, spirit and enthusiasm are the three words that are used to describe a cheerleader. As we know, the players play the game, but the cheerleaders bring the school spirit. Through the years, many young girls have cheered their teams to victories and stuck with them even though the losses.

Cheerleading is hard work and takes lots of time after school for practices and lots of preparation for games. We've learned new cheers, chants, dances and how to do pyramids. This year's squad has struggled through the hard times and laughed at the good, but we have stuck together as a team.

This year was a time of change for the Falcon cross country team. With our new coach and the loss of last year's leaders to graduation, this was a year of rebuilding. I won't deny my apprehension at the first team meeting in August. Winning the conference last year put a lot of pressure on the team as a whole to do it again. The guys put together a good season with the only loss going to Grimsley by one point. We ended the season by winning the conference championship at Hagen-Stone Park.

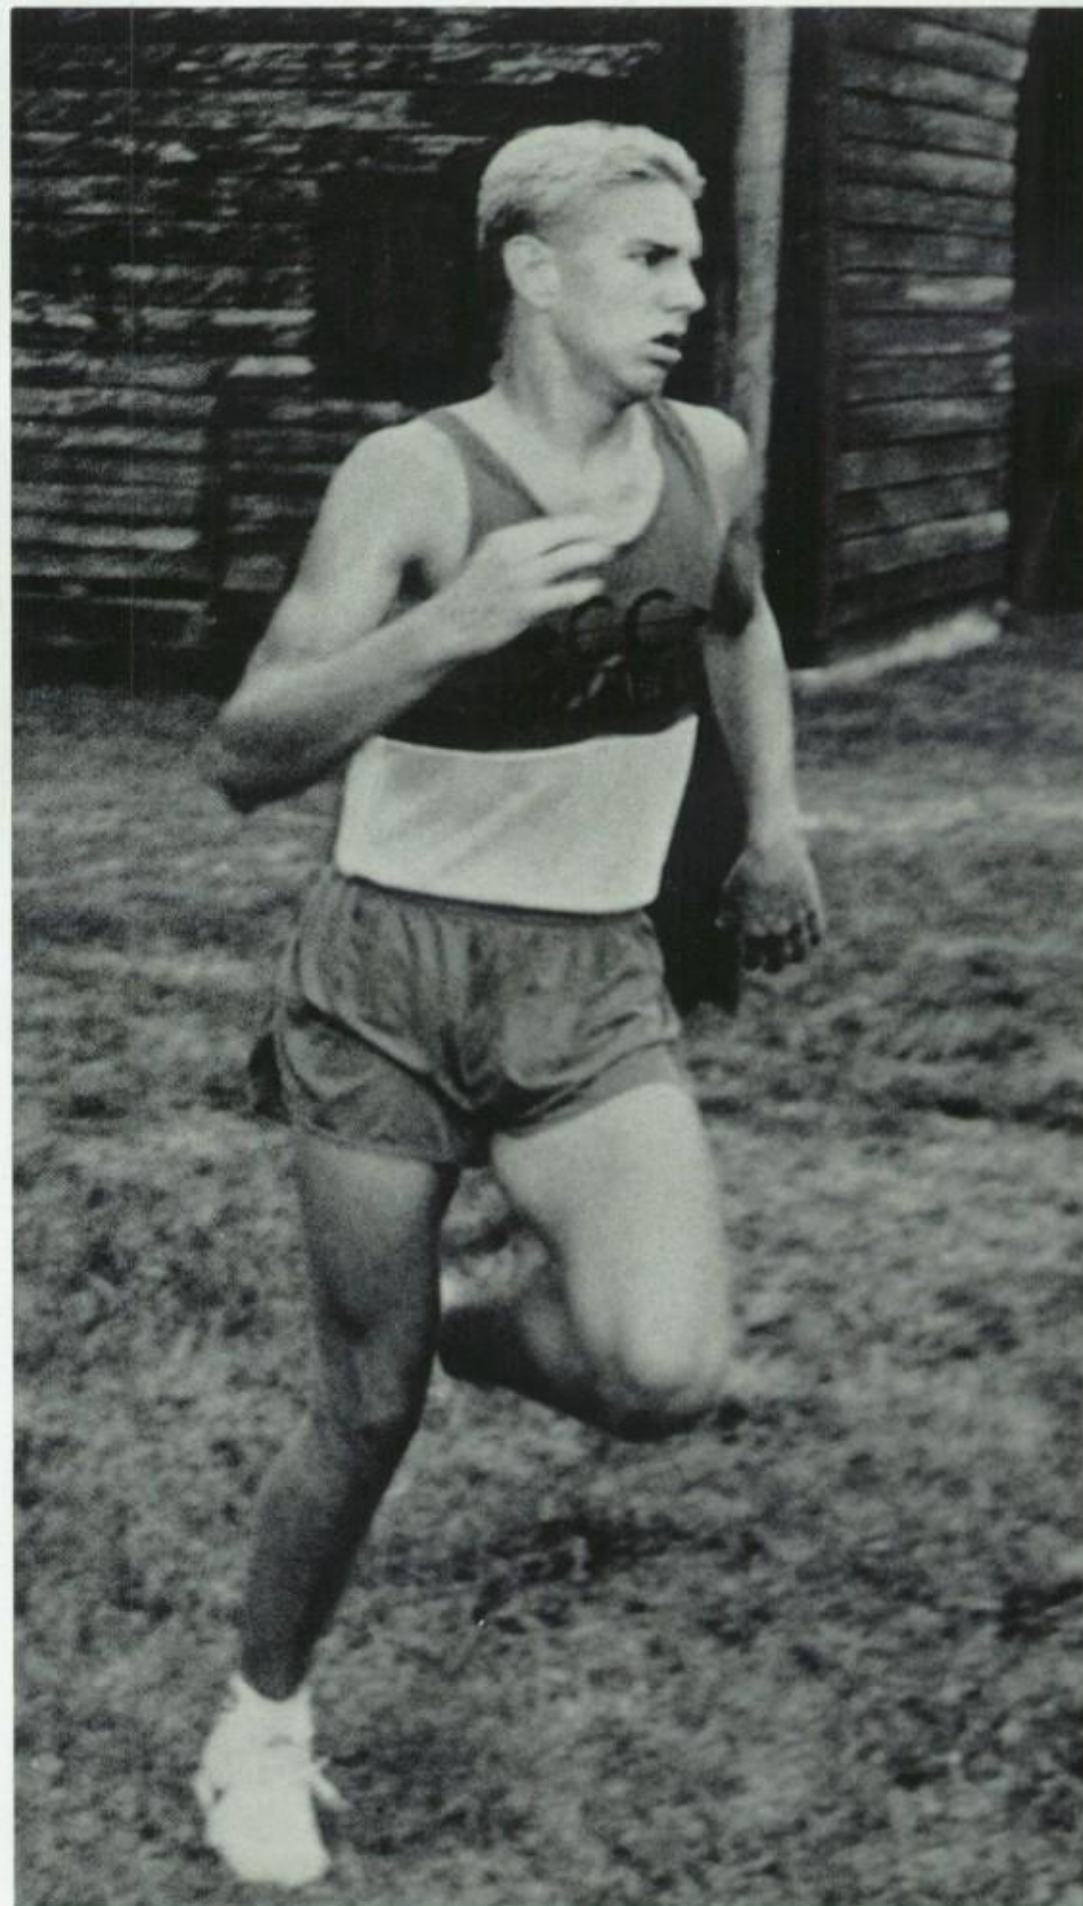

The girls' team finished their season with a record of 4-3. While they did not win the conference, they performed well at the regionals and went to compete at the state level. The All-Conference pick for the girls was Trudy Stallings.

It was a season of "blood, sweat, and tears" with both teams having good seasons. A special thanks goes to Coach Callahan and our managers, Kara Gregson and Elizabeth Dryman, for getting us through the season.

The Lady Falcon Volleyball team started practicing in August. We survived tryouts and cuts. Then, our season was underway. Even though we were a young team, with only three returning seniors, the Lady Falcs had a fairly successful season. The team played really well together. We received much support from our coach, Kathy Ferguson. We were proud to finish fourth in the conference.

I have enjoyed playing volleyball for Southeast. Good luck to all new players as well as the returning Lady Falcons in next year's season.

The Varsity Volleyball team rush to their positions to return the ball.

This year's J.V. Volleyball team had an excellent season with only two losses. Our team worked together well, but we did have some problems. Fortunately, we strived together to conquer them. Everyone stood behind each other until the end. We really had lots of challenges to overcome including Augusta Hamlin being new to the sport; Karen Berry being injured; Tonya, a former Dudley player, and three players who had played since seventh grade. It was a different group from what we were used to. We knew the same faces of our usual teammates, but this year was different with totally new faces and players.

J.V. is a big step from Jr. High. Instead of doing practically anything to get the ball over the net, we learned "setting it up." We had good players with great potential who wanted to learn and practiced to be better. We didn't get a lot of court time due to the Varsity, but the little we got paid off, so next year's varsity team will benefit from our experience.

The Falcons fight to get into position after getting a shot off.

To start the game Tim Galinski and a Southern opponent go up for the jump ball.

Matt Dymmel, with accurate and clutch shooting, keeps the Falcons close during a game with Southern Guilford.

The Falcon J.V. teams ended a good season of 1987-1988. The boy's J.V. team compiled a 9-11 record and ended the season at 5-5 in the conference. The team did a good job; hopefully they can begin where they left off this year. The girls' J.V. team ended a great year despite a 5-5 record in the conference. The Lady Falcons ended on a good note with a 13-7 record and some very impressive victories. States Elizabeth Hemphill, "I hope next year will be as rewarding as this year has been."

At the beginning of the Junior Varsity baseball season, things were a little unorganized; however, as the season progressed, things began to look up for the Falcons. Under the leadership of guys such as Todd Lenhart and David Day, the team started to work together: "Our improved attitude resulted in more wins. We began to feel really good about our playing. We will always remember the 1987 season as something special."

The J.V. Softball team is great to play on. Hank Corbett is a wonderful coach, and more than a coach. It seems that if you are on J.V., you strive to do the best you can so you get that big chance to play in that all important Varsity game. You work so hard to show your ability to get the opportunity to be pulled up-even if it's for only one game. Hank is always behind you, pushing you to do the best.

The year's record was not all that great because we were rebuilding. The positions were "up" in the air and no one knew who played the best in what position. One day someone would play second base-she would have a good day, then bad, then good again. We had lots of bad days when we dragged to the "rocky" infield to start practice. We weren't confident of our abilities and willingness to work together. We had days where no mistakes could be made even if we tried. We were up and down throughout the season, but pulled together when the season was beginning to come to a close. Maybe next year the J.V. team can come out with lots of confidence and readiness to work.

The softball season was a great success. This was due to the immense amount of teamwork that everyone put forth. We may not have won every game that we played, but at least the effort was given. It was incredible! Everyone worked together and that is what success means to me. We could not have played as well as we did without the coaching ability of Mrs. Ferguson. She gave us encouragement and support at each game. With the work of the whole softball team, we gave it our best and we were proud to be members of the Southeast Softball Team.

This year the Southeast Golf Team spent many days practicing for the 1987 season. Thanks to the encouragement from our coach, Brad Sparks, the team never gave up. We endured through the hard times that the competition of other schools gave us. Even through these hard times, John Brammer (Most Valuable Player), Matt Schwartz, and Santford Garner kept up the hope for a successful finish.

With the talent of this year's team, and the talent of upcoming golfers, I look forward to a successful season.

Mark Salch

The 1987 golf season was very rewarding. This was due to the team's never-ending dedication. The team gave their all during the practices as well as the matches.

The golf team finished seventh in the North Carolina sectionals. All of the team members have been striving to improve during the off-season. We hope to do even better this year.

This year the Varsity Girls Tennis Team ended on a very successful note with an overall record of eight wins and two losses. While participating on the tennis team, there were many obstacles to overcome. Many goals had to be reached. Many hours had to be dedicated. We experienced our share of hardships, such as injuries, but we came out on top. There was also the fact our tennis courts did not pass inspection; therefore, there were no home matches! Fortunately, we were blessed with a new coach, Deborah Dawson. She was just what we needed to get us through the season.

Through an abundance of hard work, determination, and team effort, it is safe to say we came out as winners. My last year of tennis will be remembered forever. Not only were we a tennis team, but we were all close friends.

In saying goodbye to the Falcon tennis team, I would like to wish all of the underclassmen the best of luck for next year. May you always smile, stay honest, and keep a good attitude. And remember- "True success is overcoming the fear of being unsuccessful."

Row 2: Scott McCurley, Eddie Stephens, Brad Burris, A.J. Pelczar, Syd Schenk, Patrick Kent.

The 1987 tennis team finished the season second in the conference behind Grimsley. The starting six for most of the season included Derek Allen, Chris Cagle, Ricky Thomas, Maxie Woodbury, Brad Burris, and A.J. Pelczar. Our coach was Mike Grimmer, the assistant tennis pro at Forest Oaks. The season started off with an emphasis on footwork and general conditioning. For the first two weeks, we simply jumped rope, did sit-ups and push-ups, and ran short sprints. We also did several drills daily that were designed to improve our footwork. When we started practicing on the court, we had to go to Dudley every day because we didn't have any courts. All our home matches were played at Dudley, which wasn't that great because nobody came out to watch us and cheer us on. When we went to the matches, we all rode in separate cars instead of in the van, so we lost the feeling of being a team. It wasn't as team-oriented as it should have or could have been. When a person is on the court, tennis is an individual sport, but the players should pull for each other more and act as if it were a team effort.

Throughout the year, our team had a very optimistic perception of how the season would be. The morale during practices and meets was very high, and everyone did their part to make the season a success. I felt the team strove to pull through much adversity and came out on top as one of the best in the county.

The track team enjoyed its best season since 1965, compiling a 7-2 record. The group effort of the team was a major asset towards a successful year. Many runners, through their successes, proved themselves to be a major benefactor to the team. There were also runners who became the "stars" of the team. Boosterettes! You know who we are. We are the girls who wear those black and orange uniforms and force you to buy buttons and ribbons. Boosterettes do so much more than that, though. Under the leadership of Mrs. Munns and Mrs. Harrington, we support all of the athletic teams. We do this through selling tickets and concessions to all home games for all of the sports throughout the school year. We also sell those ribbons that everybody comes to hate. The Boosterettes are responsible for finding sponsors and putting together the football program book. All of these things take extra time and effort on our part. We do this because we have a desire to contribute to our school and its teams. When we start to get discouraged, we just remember that if it were not for us, the athletic teams would not have that support they deserve.

WISHES

88 GOOD LUCK

2431 RANDLEMAN

will soon be saying good-bye, but this time the good-bye will probably mean forever. I hope that is not going to be the way it is for you and me. I cherish my friends and our friendship. At one time I lost it completely but now it is mending itself back again. I wish that some time soon hopefully before we graduate, we will have everything together. I'm not sure that we have a lot of know you have it. But now we are very close.

I just want it to be a little bit closer. I will hate to know that my best friend has left me and we are not the very best of friends. I've really enjoyed all the fun times we spent together. You're a special person in my eyes and don't you ever forget it. We'll always be the best of friends.

Well, I got to go now. I'll miss you after graduation. I love ya, dearly.

Hi Kim,
I'm glad to have met you and become your friend. Have a great summer, and good luck on whatever you have to do.
Caring

Kim,

Up over, were free!

It's been fun knowing you over the years 9th in ~~the~~ Brother Brothers
Elso class, and this year in Chorus.
Good luck with every thing in your future. Stay sweet and out of trouble

I can't believe we are finally graduating! It doesn't seem possible.
I still remember the first day of my 9th grade year - everybody was scared.
It's been great. Thank you for being a super friend. I can't believe no more Whicker after 5-27 - yea. Good Luck in your future years. You never know...
maybe we'll remember each other 10 yrs. from now. Remember the Class of 1988 Rules Forever.

Go with God
forever!

remember the words to "Friends".

I know I'll never forget them!

Kim, Fine
What's up? I wait
here. Sorry but I wait we able to take care of Adam because I won't be here next year. Maybe Robbie can do the job. It has been great year and you helped to make it that way.
I have a great time in college.

Kim,

Can you believe the year
has almost come to an end.
It's hard to believe. I'm glad that we have a class together this year. I'll miss ya!
You're a great person and a great friend. Stay Sweet!
Good luck in your future
and do me a favor, Lill Kathy!

Don't forget me!

Oh Kim! I've been this year!
I hope it's a great year!
I hope you let it be
not knowing you and I know!
great I've had a great summer!
near with you sweet summer!
kicking as very a great summer!
and have a great summer!
for the team!
Sweet and have a great summer!

Kim,
The year is
a great year!
I can't wait to see you!
I hope you let it be
a great year!
I hope you let it be
a great year!
I hope you let it be
a great year!

Kim,

Hey girlie! How's life? I can't believe it's all finally ending! 12 long yrs of my life wasted at school, ~~4~~5 of it spent w/ you. From the very beginning it was very strange. I knew something was different when this "weird" girl came + started talking to me like we were old friends. Now that we are, I don't what to say. We talk so much everyday. We go to school together, we go to work together, we go to movies together... you just can't stay away from me, can you? That's okay, you're pretty fun to talk to! ~~the~~ the thing I like most about going out w/ you is I don't have to talk much, just listen. (it's a JOKE!)

Anyway, I don't have to say "keep in touch" (which I never say anyway because if you want to KIT you just do it) because I'll see you at Quincy's this summer (+ maybe in Greensboro ~~this~~ next fall if things look like they do now). So no long sappy "good-byes" or "it's been nice knowing you" Because we're not saying goodbye + it hasn't (another JOKE!).

Your true friend,
Nandy

Kim,
This year in Streva's was something else. You're the best darn grader I ever knew. You and Adam are great together. Take care of him!
HAVE A GREAT GRAD!

Kim,

It's been a trip (at times) knowing you this year. We've had some ups & downs but we're still friendz. Keep kool over the Summer.

KIM,
 How's life treating you?
 I'm O.K. But still can't believe that we're about to graduate & get out in the real world. That ought to be real fun.
 Well, have a great summer.
 I'll probably see you around.

Kim,
It's been nice
knowing you this year we are going to have to keep in touch. We've done a lot of fun things this year and I hope we can do a lot more. Good luck in the future! As I said before we'll have to keep in touch. Have fun in your new apartment. You'll have freedom at last.

Kim -

Well now, what can I say!

It has been a hell raising year. And it is over for good.

We will never have to come back. I would have to say you are a one of a kind!

Well now I am going to leave. See you stay sweet

Kim,

Well, what do I say? We are about to graduate and we probably will not see each other anymore. Kim we've known each other for about 5 or 6 years. We've had some really good times and some bad ones. You know what I'm talking about. But as I reflect back in my mind, all the bad ones fade away and the good prevail. We've had a lot of fun as we did the plays for the school. I hate you had to drop from the cast of "Hesse". We had some major fun. I can't picture myself saying good-bye to all my friends. Just think a person that you've known for years out of your life

Kim,

I can hardly believe that we're so close to graduation. I can't wait. After 12 long years, we're finally at the end. This year at Southeast has been my greatest thanks to people like you. It's been great and you've helped to make it that way. Stay sweet and stay close. You know my number so call me this summer and we'll go out and party sometime.
